

Extended Progressive Pattern Cutting

Course Overview

This seven week course runs from Monday 23 February to Monday 20 April, 9.30am–12.30pm, at St. Margaret's Campus. It introduces and develops essential fashion skills, from pattern cutting to garment construction. You will learn to draft basic patterns, explore shape development, and progress to more complex techniques while building industry-standard construction skills. The course also covers relevant tools, equipment, and processes, supporting confidence, well-being, and progression into further learning or employment.

What you will learn

This course builds on Progressive Pattern Cutting 1, developing existing skills through creative pattern cutting and garment construction. Learners will refine core techniques, gain confidence, and prepare for further study or future employment while supporting health and wellbeing. Over seven weeks, you will explore pattern cutting and garment construction tailored to specific product types. The syllabus includes drafting and adapting basic pattern blocks, materials and measurements, design development, product construction, industry-standard equipment, and health and safety in the workshop.

Entry Requirements

This course is designed for those who have completed from Progressive Pattern Cutting 1 skills and suitable for those students who have previous Pattern Cutting/garment manufacturing experience.

Course Fees

This course is a full cost course total of £160

Course Progression

This course is designed to enable a return to education and prepare for further learning or employment, building your confidence, support your health and wellbeing, whilst learning and developing new skills. You will have opportunities to progress onto further higher-level courses, or you may wish to take your experience forward into a new career.
